Long-Term Objectives:

- Be innovative and continually changing, and adapting to meet community needs
- Be a safe and secure after-school oasis for the community's students with materials, spaces, and activities to engage their interest
- Be a welcoming, inviting community hub connecting a diverse population of users to their community and to each other
- Through collections, programs and community involvement become the cultural, intellectual and informational heart of the community
- Satisfy resident's library needs with a staff that provides a "personal touch" with users
- Offer an outstanding up-to-date collection where people find what they want, when they want it

Won't you please, give now?

A strong public library system is the very foundation upon which a community can build for the future. It supports all other forms of activity — from the arts to business, from education to public affairs, from science to entertainment.
